Subject: MLPAComments: Restriction of dogs in Marine Reserves

Currently the Code of Regulations makes no specific prohibition of dogs in a Marine Reserve. Because this is the case there has already been untold damage to the Heisler Park Marine Reserve where the tidepools are exposed to this kind of activity. Incidents of trampling native sea grass, urinating in tidepools and digging in mullusk beds occur daily. Given the intent of this law to protect sensitive ecosystems, it is vitally important that this access be restricted.
